

FACTS

WHAT DOES BRIGHTWATER ADVISORY, LLC DO WITH YOUR FINANCIAL INFORMATION?

In 2001, Congress passed the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act to help consumers better understand how the privacy of their financial information is protected. The SEC’s Regulation S-P (Privacy of Consumer Financial Information), which was adopted to comply with Section 504 of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, requires investment advisers to disclose to their clients, who are Natural Persons, its policies and procedures regarding the use and safekeeping of client records and information. This federal law requires us, as a registered investment adviser, to provide information to you on an annual basis regarding our privacy practices.

Why?

Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.

What?

Regulation S-AM (“Reg S-AM”) prohibits a registered investment adviser from using information about an individual consumer that has been obtained from an affiliated entity for marketing purposes unless the information-sharing practices have been disclosed and the consumer has not opted out.

What we do

How does Brightwater Advisory, LLC protect my personal information?

To protect your personal information internally, we permit access only by authorized employees who need to know such information and maintain commercially reasonable physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards to protect your personal information from unauthorized access and disclosure. Our employees are advised about the firm's need to respect the confidentiality of our customers' non-public personal information. As such, we limit employee access to information only to those who have a business or professional reason for knowing and only to nonaffiliated parties as permitted by law. For example, federal regulations permit us to share a limited amount of information about you with a brokerage firm in order to execute transactions on your behalf, or so that our firm can discuss your financial situation with your accountant or lawyer.

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law and discrete and proper business purposes in connection with the servicing and management of your account. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings. We do not sell personal information about our clients for any purpose. We maintain physical, procedural and electronic safeguards to protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use and we use security measures that comply with federal law in an effort to protect the information from access by unauthorized parties.

For unaffiliated third parties that require access to your personal information, including financial service companies, consultants and auditors, we also require strict confidentiality in our agreements with them and expect them to keep this information private. Federal and state regulators also may review firm records as permitted under law. Additionally, we conduct annual reviews of all our third-party service providers. We do not provide your personally identifiable information to mailing list vendors or solicitors for any purpose. Personally identifiable information about you will be maintained during the time you are a client and for the required time thereafter that such records are required to be maintained by federal and state securities laws, and consistent with the CFP Board and AICPA Code of Ethics. After this required period of record retention, all such information will be destroyed.
